Road to the National Championship

The Ohio State University Marching Band

~ Dr. Jon R. Woods - Director ~

From the Director, Jon Woods,

TBDBITL live at the 2002 National Championship game! This CD captures live the great sound and tremendous energy of The Ohio State University Marching Band in a variety of performance settings. Never before have any of the marching band albums presented the live sound of the band in such a dynamic and dramatic fashion.

The outdoor Buckeye Bash performance includes drum cadences, popular stadium cheers, traditional school songs, and other musical favorites played during the 2002 season. The highlight of this recording may well be the live coverage of the band's pregame and halftime performances. Crowd enthusiasm explodes during the band's pregame field entrance and continues with the audience shouting the O-H-I-O cheer during the playing of "Hang on Sloopy." During the finale of the pregame show, which was the incomparable "Script Ohio", you can actually hear the band from the perspective of the director's ladder. One can virtually visualize each letter as the various sections pass by the director's podium. At halftime crowd enthusiasm peaked during the finale drill which featured the drum section soloing in Benny Goodman's "Sing, Sing, Sing."

Most memorable is the band's playing of "Carmen Ohio" at the conclusion of the game. This recording includes the singing of the team, coaches, and fans during this great moment of victory and celebration.

An additional musical bonus includes this year's recording session music of the most popular songs played along the road to the championship game. This year's musical arrangements were truly exceptional.

Enjoy this great music and excitement that took us all along the road to this fabulous 2002 National Championship football season.

Go Bucks!
